dsignio (<http://www.dsignio.com/>) is a madrid-based studio that works on product and interior design projects, both in spain and around the world. 'laccio' is their latest design and it consists of a relief-patterned ceramic tile series created for the peronda group (<http://www.peronda.com/en>). to realize the tiles, dsignio referenced the way in which birds build their nests, creating a surface decorated with a series of interlacing ribbons. the strips run from one tile to another, forming a fascinating interwoven pattern that is emphasized by the slight textured-topography of the tiles and colors of each ribbon.

'laccio' comes in a wide choice of colors to suit various types of settings: white, pale cement, grey cement, warm wood and stained white wood. the design aims create comfortable spaces that are enveloped by this nest-like wall coverings.
